

EIBIS International – The Global Technical News Agency

Join our growing global network of EIBIS International offices offering clients around the world our technical news distribution service. We help companies, including large blue-chip organisations and small independently owned firms, achieve editorial coverage in the trade and technical press in their chosen target markets and countries to help promote their innovative new designs, products and services.

Behind the scenes our team of journalists, translators, media and database experts, and production specialists work together to send the client's news to the best publications in the right languages to the selected geographical regions.

EIBIS International regularly market its services to businesses, exhibition organisers and research and development bodies. Our Franchisees will also market the EIBIS Services but on a more local level through Chambers of Commerce and other business to business organisations, as well as local manufacturers and industry services.

Over 40 Years Of Global Media Excellence

EIBIS International was started by Adrian Seligman, an accomplished mariner and journalist, in May 1959 to help British Exhibition organisers promote their events and the Exhibitors products. The service grew internationally with clients across Europe, Asia, The Americas and Australasia.

Event organisers were quickly recommending the EIBIS service to individual exhibitors and EIBIS began achieving editorial success in the specialised trade and technical press.

EIBIS used to be an acronym for: Engineering in Britain Information Services, but now we are simply EIBIS International.

The company was subject to a management buy-out from the AB Communication Group in 1996, and has since gone from strength to strength.

EIBIS International is now regarded the global leader in International technical news distribution.

Market Potential

Our service is so specialised it suits any innovative manufacturing or service industry business, even large companies with their own marketing department, whether promoting domestically or internationally! You could be part of an exciting multi-million pound media industry.

Our Strengths

EIBIS International has been around a long time and is known and respected by journalists, editors and publishers all over the world. Many will use our articles word for word as the style of writing matches that of the publications themselves, focusing on technical detail and interesting relevant information, and not the usual sales puff many editors receive.

Our huge database of over 38,000 trade and technical publications from around the world is unique to EIBIS International and is the most comprehensive available.

No other company in any country offers the same level, depth and quality of service. One media professional called us the “Pullman Service”.

Why EIBIS International Chose Franchising

Since the management buy-out in 1996, the team have been working hard to update the technology and production systems to ensure every facet of a news article is perfect. Each language, target publication and client feedback notification has to be carefully processed.

We are now developing a global network of professional Franchisee partners offering the same high quality of client service to their local markets.

Why You Should Choose EIBIS

EIBIS International is the global leader in Technical News distribution, the first name business professionals think of when launching products and services, growing export markets, expanding sales areas or increasing market awareness. Strong branding combined with a history of media excellence makes EIBIS the ideal choice for professional Franchise Partners with initiative, administration skills and determination.

The Opportunity

To own and operate your own EIBIS International news office and form relationships with your own client base that will result in long term benefits for your clients and for you.

Do I Need To Have Sales Experience?

Sales experience would be an obvious advantage but is not essential. It is more important to have confidence, enthusiasm, an agreeable personality and a flare for communicating with business professionals.

Do I Need Business Experience?

Experience in media or news is not required but administration and/or business skills would certainly be an advantage.

What are the Start-up Costs?

Start-up costs are relatively low as you can work from home providing you have a dedicated office and a fast Internet connection, (preferably broadband, subject to availability).

The initial investment cost will normally be around €50K, to include the Franchise Package of €28K, setting up costs of €7K and working capital of €15K.

Unlike most franchises, you will not have to "produce" a finished product or invest in premises or capital equipment. All production of the news articles you generate will be executed in the UK. Our experienced journalists and production team will process the news article and translations, as well as media selection and distribution. Your operating costs will therefore be very small.

What Is The Earnings Potential?

It is hard to estimate the value of sales for a new Franchisee. Much will depend on your skills, your country's demographics and indigenous industries, and as in any business, your own hard work. Building up a client base may vary in timescales but soon relationships are formed and new clients become regular clients. (Financial projections can be made available).

Will I Succeed?

The reason EIBIS International has been around a long time is because once clients have tried the service and seen the benefits first hand, they develop as regular clients using the service whenever they need it. We don't ask for annual retainers and all projects are payable per news story with no other commitment. Your determination and enthusiasm will reap long term rewards from your growing client base. It's an old expression but you will get out what you put in!
